

Announcing a new Odd Nauseum project...

Welcome to the International House of Fail!

...THE VISUAL NOVEL!

*Okay, not exactly entirely new. It's an adaptation of the completed comic into a visual novel.
But still pretty Fun!*

The comic is still just
as dead as yours truly.
Whimps.

But, this new thing will flesh out the story and add interactivity and new endings!

BE EXCITED!

Ya might even
get to learn some
backstory 'bout
us!

Did you do
your homework?

* Greyjaw really is still really mind for me to draw head leaving notes on her too
thing to know
• she really does not have
up boxes.
• All the things are on
to her
• Just things that were
new and so she's very sketchy • It's not a whole position where it's not of the first

Greyjaw's legs are thin & connect to her ankles for a part like Joy at Greyjaw no much more shape. Think there's a lot

SO YOU HAVE A GREAT IDEA FOR A COMIC

(congrats, so does everyone)

oh well
at least they're
fun to draw

great characters but no actual plot in sight

this phrase is repeated indefinitely: your comic remains in limbo-jumbo
for eternity, never
seeing the light of day

okay there is ACTUALLY A PLOT, you swear you will actually make this someday

spend approx. 2 weeks making one really detailed test page

okay holy shit
comics are actually
a lot of work,
they weren't lying

you never realized how
terrible you were
at perspective

okay let's try this again but this time FASTER

maybe you'll try
that again sometime.
(who are you kidding?)

well it went faster
but it looks awful

somehow you manage
to take even longer
than the last one

continue alternating between these two extremes until you somehow manage to find a happy medium. This could take dozens of pages

RESIST THE
URGE YOU MUST
KEEP GOING

you probably want to redo all those early pages, don't you

you couldn't
resist and find
yourself doomed to
redraw the same 5 pages
over and over
forever

astoundingly, you resist the urge but secretly despise your early pages

I guess you have a comic now!
being comic artist is suffering but please remember to NEVER GIVE UP
